To many of the pupils in our school Mr. Mitchell, our principal, is not known, except as the head of the school. Though he may be unknown to us, we are not unknown to him, and it is through his ceaseless and untiring efforts that we are able to enjoy Lakewood High School as we do.

MISS GARRABRANT

When some people speak about the art department, they snicker ignorantly, "Who takes art?" But why should they say that, because this department, under the capable supervision of Miss Garrabrant, is producing an astonishing number of talented young daubers and sketchers, who are not only making a name for themselves, but for the school. Haven't you ever stumbled here and there over smocked lassies copying the first floor clock, the fountain, or the book-room? These are the students who are getting training which helps them towards bringing home "the bacon" in the form of prizes from different art contests.

MISS BARKLEY MRS. RASH

MR. EBERLE

The ever popular desire to converse in a different language lures many of us to take French or German. The latter is being taught now after a long interim of ten years, and the school is fast going guttural-minded again. We think its great popularity may be blamed on Mr. Eberle, the department head, and on Mr. Doering.

The magic fluency of French keeps it alive and interesting. One cries for more, after he enjoys a year of Miss MacMillan; trips along gaily with Miss Hiatt or Mr. Galanie through second and third year French; and then, with mouth agape, listens to Mr. Eberle tell one of those interesting stories which he relates in French.

They Train Lakewoodites for the Business World

Tap—tap—tap—tap—tap. No, it isn't a telegraph key tapping out a message in code, but it is the members of our commercial department using typewriters. Typing is one of the most popular of the many commercial subjects offered in our high school. And can some of those students type! If you think you know what fast typing is, just drop into one of the advanced typing classes some day and you will soon have a headache from attempting to keep up with the fingers of an advanced student. These people are all getting training which will be of much use to them in future years when they are out in the business world, for we are sure each of them will be A No. 1 stenographers or private secretaries.

What! You ask if typing is all that is offered by the commercial department. We should say not! Let's see, it offers the above mentioned course in typing, then there is one that goes with it, none other than our friend, shorthand (and a word to the wise is sufficient: if you want to be a private secretary you must know your shorthand). Well, to get along with our subjects, there is a course in office practice for all advanced pupils, one in business law, another in commercial geography, one in commercial arithmetic, bookkeeping, and also in those old friends, spelling and penmanship. All of these subjects are taught by a very capable staff headed by Mr. Buckstaff, and including many competent teachers.

Good Health and Clean Athletics Aim of This Department

When we see our football team struggling manfully through victory or defeat, or witness the basketball squad in action against powerful teams, or when we yell ourselves hoarse at exciting swimming meets, we seldom remember to give credit to our loyal coaches, who, because of their ceaseless efforts, are at least halfway responsible for Lakewood High's enviable record in athletics. The coaches for the boys are Messrs. Corneal, Ross, and Linden; for the girls, Misses Hiserodt, Dolloff, and Whitlock. Miss Whitlock and Coach Linden teach swimming. Coach Corneal, head of the boys' athletic department, is one of the reasons why Lakewood High School has had a championship track team for so many years; he's one of the outstanding coaches in the country; the boys admire him, and the girls like to have him speak to them. Lakewood's football and basketball teams, fairly successful this year, were trained by Coach Ross. Mr. Linden's swimming teams are so well-known throughout the entire country, because of their excellent records, that it is unnecessary to sing their praises here. Now for the girls: Miss Hiserodt is interested in basketball and archery, while Miss Dolloff specializes in dancing and tennis. Other girls' sports are hockey, volley ball, baseball, and hiking. Miss Whitlock, in addition to teaching all girls' swimming classes, conducts special after-school swimming classes for beginners, and heads a swimming club and life saving class for advanced girls.

Ask an old-timer about his study of English. He'll very likely reply, "Oh, yes, when I went to school all we did in English class was learn things like do, did, done, swim, swam, swum, and write compositions on the color of beetles' eyes." Then is the time to tell him about the English classes at our dear old alma mater. For instance, you might mention the manner in which the grammar classes are made interesting. And then, when you finish expounding on that subject, you might mention the chance students have to develop any special abilities. For anyone who is interested in journalism or in working on one of the school publications—and by the way, these three publications are helped greatly by the English department—Mr. Howard teaches a very worthwhile class in journalism. If you simply must write poetry, why not join Mr. White's creative English class? Too, Miss Moore instructs a class in short story writing, and then for the would-be speaker, there is Mr. Brown's public speaking class.

Oh, they say such things, and they do such things in the Lakewood High chemistry department! And that's no joke. If you have been greeted in your wandering about the school with strange, unappetizing odors, you must understand something of what they "do." If you are one of those responsible for the smells, then perhaps you understand what it is to "say such things"—when experiments go wrong. Mr. Boruff and his staff, Mr. Bradbury, Mr. Kluckhohn, Mr. Decker, and Mr. Webb, have at some time or other, initiated the greater part of the Lakewood High students into the interesting but distracting mysteries of chemistry. You have no qualms about cutting up bugs, beetles, or white mice if you have taken biology. Biology is interesting and worth while as taught by Mr. Pape, Mr. Huhn, Miss Gillen, and Miss Pengelly. For the very scientific-minded, Lakewood High School offers advanced courses in physics, taught by Miss Hobbs and Mr. Collier, department head, and courses in advanced chemistry.

Harmony Is Found Here

MR. BARR

When we are or were innocent little sophs, we take or took music and scoff or scoffed at ourselves and our fellows. But our music department really is good even if we cannot or could not sing.

Almost every year Lakewood has taken a prize in chorus, solos, band, or orchestra. Our music department has won so many prizes that we expect them as a matter of course, but prize-winning requires much work from Mr. Barr, singing instructor, and from Mr. Jewell, the leader of our band and orchestra.

Under their supervision, the music department has assisted with or put on many of our assembly programs. Almost invariably during football season we sang songs at assemblies. Mr. Barr directed this singing. And time and again the glee clubs have sung for somebody else's program.

MR. JEWELL

When we saw the band parading up and down the field on a cold Saturday last fall, we seldom thought of the hard work it required from each one, and especially from Mr. Jewell, to present that picture of color and sound that helps to make a football game what it is. For all those who are interested in music as more than recreation or amusement, our music department provides a course in Harmony which extends over two years and gives the novice a really strong foundation on which to build his or her future career.

Music was first introduced into our school to give the average student a very short course in music appreciation, by letting him study good music. From such a beginning, it has grown into the complicated and valuable department that it now is, a respected part of the school.

MISS STOCKWELL

MISS FINDLEY

"Could you tell me of a very short biography that I could read overnight for a book report?" "Have you a book on the Duke of Wellington?" "What would you recommend as a good book to read, just for pleasure?" These are a few samples of the many questions which Miss Findley, Miss Stockwell, and Miss Sigler, our school librarians, answer every day. Besides this, these librarians aid many students daily to find material on any of the subjects taught in the school. Then, too, there are many college catalogues which are referred to by students desiring information on some college which they hope some day to attend. However, the library is not entirely composed of reference books. In fact, many of the books are fiction books. Anything from "Little Red Ridinghood" to "A Tale of Two Cities" may be found on the shelves of our library. By the way, it is one of the best in the country.

MISS KELNER

“Friends! Romans! Countrymen!”

Rome—the one-time mistress of the world. The city of elegant ruins. We who are now taking Latin are paying tribute to old Rome—“To the glory that was Greece”—by our study of Virgil’s Aeneid. And the “grandeur that was Rome,” by our study of Caesar’s “Gallic Wars,” and Cicero’s “Orations.” For after our study of these books, we can see the troops of Caesar cutting a road that they may get through to the next village to wage another battle and emerge as victors. Did you ever wonder from whence some of our maneuvers in time of war have come? Well, if you were ambitious enough you could probably trace them right back to Mr. Julius Caesar, first emperor of Rome, because he certainly knew his business when it came to a problem in which military affairs had any place.

Haven’t you ever become as excited over one of Cicero’s speeches in the trial of Cataline as you have over a modern murder that makes the front page of our daily newspapers? If you haven’t, you have missed something, because his talks before the Roman grand-jury were really good. For after all the Roman writers were human.

They Know Their Spanish

MR. PAINE

When you see so many earnest Lakewoodites in the halls, or study halls, tearing their hair and muttering something that sounds like the early beginnings of insanity, then you may know of a certainty that they are Spanish students, and bid farewell to a peaceful study hall and blame Mr. Paine. The latter is the excellent and capable teacher who heads the Spanish department and teaches this always popular subject, with the aid of Miss Coates and Mr. Heskamp. The students of this department are receiving a good business foundation, for Spanish is one of the most widely spoken foreign languages in the business world.

MR. HESKAMP

That we have an excellent Spanish department, we are sure, for almost yearly someone wins a prize or scholarship in the contest conducted by Oberlin College. This year, of the four possible places, Lakewood High students won three. So shouldn't we be proud of this department, particularly as every one of these people started their training in Spanish in our own high school? So let's give three rousing cheers for this department.

MISS COATES

Do They Know the Events That Made World History?

In what year was the Declaration of Independence signed? What city has been called the Cradle of Liberty? Surely, everyone knows the answer to the first question, so we shall not bother you with the answer to it, but just in case you don't know the answer to the second one we shall tell you; the city is none other than that place well known for baked beans—Boston. If you take 12-B History—but wait, there can be no if's as far as 12-B History goes, for all pupils must take it—you will learn(at least you should learn) the above things plus a few more.

This course in history is one that interests all true Americans, as it is a course in American History. But American History is not the only subject offered in this department—there is that old favorite, Medieval History—then Modern European—and last, but not least, Bible History. Then, to aid those who are interested in the business worlds of this and other countries, there is a splendid course in Economics.

All of these subjects are well taught by an excellent staff of teachers in a department headed by Mr. Elmer Jessup. These teachers do all in their power to make this course interesting to the students of Lakewood High School, and believe us, they not only try to do so, but they do do so, as much as it is within their power.

A Straight Line Is the Shortest

Who enjoys math? Well, ask almost anyone in the Lakewood High mathematics department and he will tell you that anyone and everyone should enjoy math, as taught by the teachers in this department. Mr. Gates is head of the department and is ably assisted by six loyal teachers: Mr. Bixler, Mr. Siggins, Mr. Meeks, Mr. Garner, Miss Hobson, and Miss Smith. Anything and everything in the line of mathematics is taught, from Plane Geometry to College Algebra and Trigonometry. One dives head first into the mysteries of plane geometry, and comes through swimmingly. But when it comes to 11-B Algebra and College Algebra, one may go in head first and of his own accord, but he is often times pulled out feet first. While we are struggling along and inwardly saying things about the subject and our teacher, let's remember that he went through it once and is able to sympathize with us in our trouble, for he is only human the same as we, and realizes that it is as hard for us as it was for him. This department aids all pupils who are having a hard time with math by coaching and tutoring them.

Hear ye, all who have yearnings to become aviators, engineers, or first-class mechanics! We have a technical department for just such aspirants, and although you will undoubtedly find that you do not know nearly so much as you think you do, and that there is a great deal to find out besides that, and that possibly it isn't worth the work; there are some of you who will probably stick at it, and drive your engines and build your bridges and make your machines. So maybe ten years from now we, the present pupils at Lakewood High, may walk or drive across a bridge or some other structure that a pupil who received his first technical training in Lakewood High has constructed. Can't you just picture some steel structure being built and bearing the sign, "Construction being done by Blank & Blank," and then realize that you knew that person when you were both students at Lakewood, and perhaps struggling with the same problems in classes.

Home-Making Their Interest

No longer is it necessary for newly-weds to eat out of cans till the bride gains enough experience to boil water without burning it. At least it will not be necessary for any bride who attends Lakewood High, since we have such a complete home economics department. Miss Miller, head of this department, and her staff not only teach cooking, but also teach dressmaking, millinery, and interior decorating. This course is not only very worth-while to the girl who looks forward to "a little vine-covered cottage," but it is also a fine preparation for anyone who plans to enter the promising home economics field in which are included hotel hostesses, dressmakers, milliners, interior decorators, dieticians, and many others. This department is extremely proud of their model suite, which is furnished and taken care of every year by the classes. A special feature of this suite is the luncheons served here to the teachers by students who wish to gain some practical experience in acting as hostesses, waitresses, and in planning menus for meals of this type. Frequently, the girls taking this course put on style shows. All the clothes displayed are made by the girls. Now the secret's out, the home economics department must be the cause of so many well-dressed girls in our school.

Miss Mason

Mrs. Klaameyer

A great deal of office work goes on behind the scenes in a high school. Program cards have to be made out, checked, and filed; detained slips, hospital slips, and visitor's passes given out. Telephone calls from parents and friends must be answered and messages taken. The questions of an endless procession of inquiring students and teachers must be satisfactorily answered. So it goes for the girls on the Lakewood High School office force.

Miss Sigler, the registrar, takes care of all new students, sends substitute teachers to classes where regular teachers are absent, gives the announcements over the telephone, and supervises the work of the other three girls on the office force.

These girls are Miss Mason, the pretty little brunette, who is Mr. Mitchell's secretary. Mrs. Klaameyer, the clerk, who keeps all sorts of records. Miss Bender, the telephone girl, is like a big sister to everyone in the school, students and teachers alike. She answers questions, makes out permits, changes dimes into two nickels, and does all sorts of helpful things. Louise, as everyone calls her, says she is a "jack of all trades," and that title is appropriate for all the members of the office force.

All day long and long after 3:30 they work at a "break-neck speed." They take turns doing secretarial work for Miss Kimball and Mr. Meeks. The only things the students hold against them is that they check up on those who skipped zero hours and study halls. That isn't very considerate of them, but the students like the girls on the office force just the same because they are so good-natured and business-like.

DAVE RIMMEL
President

Leaders of

Dave Rimmel, president of the January class, has excelled in popularity, scholarship, and service during his three years at Lakewood High. He is a good-looking fellow with a striking personality and a wide variety of talents.

Dave's greatest achievement was his success as editor of the High Times in the spring semester of 1930; at that time the paper won first prize in its class in a contest of the National Scholastic Press Association. He has also been on the staff of El Bole-tin Casual, treasurer of the Student Council, a member of the Hi-Y, the Glee Club, Quill and Scroll, and the National Honor Society. To add to his other gifts, Dave plays a tippie—he calls it a ukelele—and sings well. Dave is certainly a many-sided leader and one who will go far.

Gladys Frode, secretary of the January class, augments her vivid personality with her dramatic ability and her prowess in athletics. Gladys has all the characteristics of a good leader, independence and thoughtfulness, combined with real ability and conscientious execution, plus the pleasant manner which will cause one to go far.

In her three years at high school, she has belonged to the Barnstormers Club, English Council, Student Council, and Swimming Club. Gladys is an excellent swimmer and a life saver. She has been in several school plays and through them has gained the reputation for being an unusually good actor.

GLADYS FRODE
Secretary

January Class

Marian Morris, vice president of the January class, is so sweet and unassuming that she makes friends of everyone she meets. She won her position by reason of her dependability, her ambition, and her real service to Lakewood High. Marian has been a member of the Friendship Club for three years and was elected vice president in her last year. She was corresponding secretary of the Student Council in the fall semester of 1930 and has been a member of the English Council for three years. Marian performed her duties as vice president well and was at once efficient and charming.

MARIAN MORRIS
Vice President

Elmer Harp, treasurer of the January class, has the direct and business-like qualities of a good treasurer combined with a pleasantness of manner and a magnetism of personality that mark him as a popular and outstanding student. Elmer was voted the most outstanding student in his class in his sophomore and junior years. There is something about him that invites confidence—perhaps it is his quietness and modesty or his calm and matter-of-fact way of taking life as it comes.

Elmer held the position of president of the Student Council when he was a senior and was active in Barnstormers, Hi-Y, French Club, and a staff member of the Arrow. He was fitly rewarded for his services to Lakewood High by being elected to the National Honor Society and held the position of secretary of that organization.

MILTON BOBEY
President

Choice of

Milton Bobey, president of the June class, owes his success as a leader to his inexhaustible enthusiasm and good nature. His spontaneous smile, easy manners, high scholastic record, and his cheerful personality have won for him a place of merited leadership. In both his sophomore and his junior years he was voted the most outstanding all-round student in his class.

Perhaps Milton's greatest service has been his cheer-leading. For the past three years he and Howard Cole have been Lakewood's peppiest team of cheer-leaders. They have each won purple "L's" for their good work. Milton has been active in the Hi-Y, being secretary in his junior year and president in his senior year. He has been a member of the Boosters' Club, English Council, and Student Council and has always been on the Honor Roll.

Ann Darling, secretary of the June class, has won her position by her charm and her naive and friendly manner. Ann's accomplishments are many. She is a solo dancer and has gained a well deserved reputation at Lakewood High by dancing for assemblies and at school entertainments. She was recording secretary of the Student Council in her senior year, a staff member of El Boletin Casual, secretary of the Spanish Club, and a member of the National Honor Society. Ann is a fine violinist and has been in the orchestra three years. She has also served as president of this organization.

ANN DARLING
Secretary

June Classmates

Jane Cassidy, vice president of the June class, is president of the Friendship Club and an associate editor of the Arrow as well as a member of several other clubs. These positions keep Jane busy, but she always has time to be pleasant and manages to crowd in a few other duties, such as presiding at assemblies and speaking on the debate team.

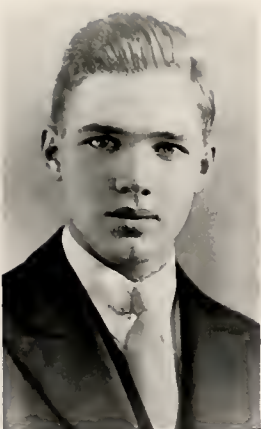

She has a fine sense of humor that helps her to smooth over the rough places, and beauty and charm that make her attractive as well. She is always cheerful and willing to do any task which may fall to her.

Donald Gehring, treasurer of the June class, was chosen because of his outstanding business achievements and his dependability. He sees his goal and marches straight toward it, letting nothing hinder his progress. When Don graduates, what will the Barnstormers Club do without its stage electrician? He is one of the best electricians the club has ever had. And what will the Cinema do without Don to take snapshots for it? And who will become circulation manager of the Arrow?

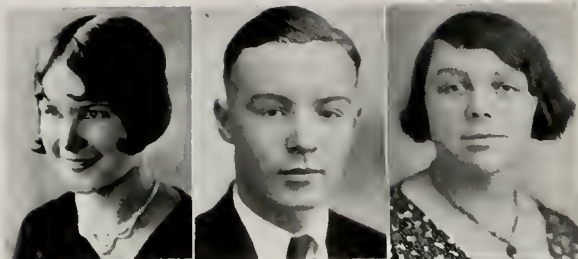

Don has been a member of Barnstormers for three years, being president in 1930 and secretary in 1931. He has been a High Times representative, an active member of the Hi-Y, and was elected to the National Honor Society. For all his activities, Don has remained friendly and sincere and has been a good student, always doing something unusual and unique.

ACTIVITIES

They Know Their Aeronautical Terms

"Hey, Bill, my glider is going to stay up in the air longer than yours is." "Nope, sorry, John, but it can't, it just simply can't; I can't have an innocent little soph beat me, so here goes; and I bet mine stays up longer than yours." A stranger wandering about the building would undoubtedly come into the boys' gym and be greeted by a similar argument, if it were a Saturday morning and the Aero Club was holding contests of different kinds. The members of this organization make model planes and gliders and then hold contests to see whose will stand up the longest when it is put in flight. Building and flying of planes is not the only occupation of these boys. When new members are taken into the club, the old members instruct them in some of the whys and wherefores of aviation. A book on the subject is followed in this course of instruction. But wait a second, fellows, don't let that scare you off, for they have good times, too. Once in a while they hold a party, then again they make trips to points of interest in Cleveland.

The Arrow Always Hits Home

Everything has its own history, be it an individual one or a part of the history of something else. And history is always in the making; so more history in the life of Lakewood High was made when in December, 1919, the first issue of our monthly magazine, the Arrow, was published and sold to the pupils of our school. This publication has held its own through thick and thin, and consequently this year's Arrow is a bigger and better Arrow than ever before. There are many new features, departments, and contests to be found in this year's publication.

Annually the Arrow conducts a Christmas contest, and the best in the following classes: best poem, story, essay, or editorial, are published in the December issue of the magazine. In this way the literary ability of the students is discovered and often times a future publication writer is found. The Arrow is run by a student staff composed of people in all grades in the high school. And that these people on the staff work that we may have a good magazine goes without saying, but perhaps to satisfy yourself of the fact ask a member of the staff or join it yourself. If you do that you will then find out what real work is.

Everyone in the building looks forward to three important events during the school year. All of them are connected with the Arrow. They are: the annual assembly, opening the subscription campaign, Arrow Wednesday, the day the magazine comes out, and last, but not least, the dance, at which everyone has a good time.

Almost Press Time

Strike Up the Band

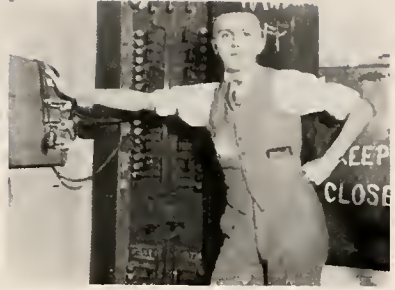

Forward! Right by file, march! From the stands comes a whispered comment, "Here comes the band," and to the soft roll of the drum, the band marches to their places, for playing at football games is part of the band's duty. Doesn't your heart swell with pride when you see the band, under the direction of its prancing drum major, march down the field, stop before the grandstands to play our football song, or to perform some difficult maneuver? Perhaps when you see these things, you don't think of the time and effort of these loyal Lakewoodites, members of the band.

The band plays, not only for the football games, but also for assemblies, public meetings, and other occasions. In fact, the band takes quite an active part in civic affairs. One of the requirements for membership in the band is that the person be willing to play at any occasion. Besides this, and of course, being able to play a band instrument, a member of this organization must pass a music test and be very regular in attendance at practice.

Each year the band participates in the State Band Contest and usually comes off with at least one prize. This requires a great deal of time and effort, as most of the contest music is quite difficult. However, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," so the boys and girls in the band, with Mr. Jewell, the director, have many good times together. Girls! yes, this year for the first time girls have been allowed to play in the band.

Members of Our "Little Theater"

Time: 4:00 P. M. every other Thursday.

Place: Any vacant room.

Cast: Faculty adviser, officers, and members of Barnstormers.

Act I

President: The meeting will please come to order. Secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

Secretary: The meeting was called to order by the president, business was discussed; we had a little entertainment; meeting was adjourned.

President: Any additions or corrections? All right, we will now proceed with the business at hand. The discussion is to be centered about the play, "Outward Bound," which is to be our spring production. Does anyone have a question about the play?

Member: Mr. President, I do not believe that anyone has anything to say.

President: The meeting is adjourned.

Act II Curtain!

Our Councilors in English

“Ain’t life grand?” “Ain’t it though?” “Who’d a ever thunk ten years ago that to-day we’d be seein’ the beginnings of an air route over the country, and that us would be a riding on it?” Boy, oh, boy! but the speakers of those phrases had better never come near our school, and never run into a member of the English Council. This council is somewhat like the Student Council in that it is composed of a representative from each English class, whereas the Student Council is made up of a member from each home room. The council has for its aim, “To do all that we can to help correct the common errors in English and to eliminate as much as possible the use of slang, and, in general, to further and perfect the English language in all its forms as much as possible.” With this as an aim, one can be sure that a person must use as correct English as he can, if he hopes to stay around the members of the English Council. But don’t let this scare you from being natural before an English Councilor—they make mistakes also.

“Ain’t It Correct?”

A Good-Looking Bushel of Friendship

As its name implies, the Friendship Club is a "ship manned by a crew of girls who wish to be and are friends." This is the club which fills baskets at Thanksgiving time and takes them to families who need aid. This club holds monthly meetings on the third Thursday and suppers on the next Friday.

Everyone Is a Friend

Parlent-ils francais, Mademoiselle?

Oui, oui, we are now going to tell you about the French Club. This is one of the most outstanding of the language organizations at Lakewood High School. To belong to it you must have studied French for one year, and you must be passed upon by the membership committee of the French Club. Many of its members are fluent speakers, since they began the study of this language in junior high school and have continued it in high school.

Following the time-honored custom of language clubs, the meetings, held twice a month, are conducted almost entirely in French. Sometimes the club has a guest speaker who talks to the organization on some subject pertaining to France and as often as possible in French. Even the social meetings must be carried on in French; the various games, songs, poetry, short plays, and informal talks, must all be given in French. Can't you imagine the group playing "Farmer in the Dell" or "Pussy in the Corner" or reciting nursery rhymes in French? Last fall a few of its more experienced members produced a short comedy, "La Faim Est Un Grand Inventure," for the Lakewood French Society. These are only a few of its many activities, but you may rest assured that no matter what it does, it probably always will be quite a "Frenchy" French Club.

Yes, They Speak French

German Is Their Line

As far as its age goes, the German Club is the baby of the organizations at Lakewood High. It was organized in the fall of 1929. Since that time it has grown very rapidly, and among the language clubs is one of the most popular. Meetings are held twice a month at the close of school. These meetings usually include a program of some kind or other. Often it is a program planned and put on by the members of the club; though sometimes outside speakers are brought in to speak to the club on some subject pertaining to Germany, the nation or its customs. Though every once in a while as a special treat the members and their faculty adviser take a long hike through Rocky River Valley.

In the German Club as in most other clubs, new members are admitted only after they have presented a try-out paper and have been approved by the membership of the club. The requirements to this group are easy to fulfill. If you wish to belong, you must have a grade of "C" or above in German and write a satisfactory thesis on some subject pertaining to Germany, its customs, or its people.

The club is a good place to acquire a great many things: more knowledge of Germany, a place to increase your ability to converse in German, and to have a good time with people interested in the same things.

Here They Are

Future Stars of the Musical World

If at any time during the ninth period you should hear the melody of some song floating through the air in the second corridor of the women's building you may be assured that it is the Boys' Glee Club practicing for an assembly program or for some special activity at which they are to play an important part in the program. This organization is one of the largest, if not the largest of the boys' organizations in the school. Most of the boys who are members of the club are well-known for other outside work. One of the subdivisions of this club is the Boys' Quartet. This group is always in demand on programs at our school and at other schools, as well as at meetings of various organizations in Lakewood.

Both groups are under the able leadership of the head of our music department, Mr. Herbert H. Barr, who spends much time working with these boys.

A chorus of boys from this Glee Club has often joined with a chorus of girls from the Girls' Glee Club and sung in assemblies or at baccalaureate services, or when participating in the Lake Erie League contest for the mixed group numbers.

The Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs again joined forces and produced a cantata. The selection made for their annual production was "The Mound Builders," a cantata which has a connected story of the prehistoric Indian running through it. Both words and music for this work were written by Paul Bliss. The combined glee clubs also entertained the school at a music assembly in December. One always knows that anything sponsored by this live group is bound to be good.

"I'm a Dreamer"

"Aren't We All?"

The Girls' Glee Club has done unusually fine work this year, by contributing to many assembly programs, school entertainments, also by competing in the Lake Erie League chorus contest. The glee clubs are part of the music course offered at Lakewood High, but members need not have exceptional talent. The only requirement for membership to the Girls' Glee Club is the passing of a very simple test, but since chorus work requires constant rehearsing, every member must expect to do her share of the work. There are several smaller groups in the glee club, such as the girls' octet, quartet, and soloists, which have also done splendid work for our school. Most of their songs are sung in either three or four-part harmony. Notwithstanding the fact that the Girls' Glee Club requires a considerable amount of outside work; that is, after school work; this club has one of the largest memberships of any of the girls' clubs in Lakewood High School. The girls derive much pleasure from their singing, and, at the same time, receive much valuable experience and training, under the supervision of Mr. Barr, their instructor. The Girls' Glee Club is a kind of sorting-room, in which girls may decide whether or not to continue their musical studies at high school. Then many of them do continue and take harmony in their junior year, and, having taken glee club work, they are accustomed to high school chorus singing and music study and appreciation. The Girls' Glee Club is open to any girl in our high school who desires to join, and it welcomes new and hard-working members. So, for any Lakewood High girl who is interested in practical chorus singing this club is a real opportunity.

Are You Able to Find Anything Wrong with This Picture?

The Hi-Art Guild is the organization for Lakewood High School students who are interested in art work. The qualifications for membership in the Hi-Art Guild are three pieces of art work submitted to and accepted by the membership committee of the club. The three pieces must be original work but may be any kind of art work—usually sketches of some sort. Although membership is not limited to art students, very few pupils not studying art belong to the Hi-Art Guild. The interests of this club are of a wide variety owing to the fact that there is such a wide range in the artistic work done at Lakewood High School. A regular art course was only recently added to the other courses offered at our high school, but it has already proved itself desirable and useful. Naturally, then, the Hi-Art Guild is the normal outgrowth of this new course of study. Some of the members of our art club are interested in commercial art, others in sketching, water colors, oils, modeling, leather work, or metal work. One of its two meetings each month is a social meeting, at which an outside speaker talks and displays his work for guild members. These talks are helpful as well as interesting, because they give students some idea of the kind of work professional artists must do. One of the services the Hi-Art Guild renders to Lakewood High is in helping to choose artistic, yet suitable, decorations for our halls and classrooms; some examples—pictures, mural decorations, etc.

At Christmas time this year, the Hi-Art Guild displayed and sold cards and other art work in the hall of the main building. This is another of its fields of service.

The purpose of the Hi-Art Guild is to promote art appreciation and study and to provide an organization for the art students or those interested in art at Lakewood High.

"Will the meeting please come to order? Betty, will you take the minutes? And be sure to take them in shorthand." Ah! now the secret is out! Having heard the instructions to take the minutes of the meeting in shorthand, a stranger would be almost positive that he had stumbled into a meeting of the Hi-Commercial Club, and you may rest assured that is exactly what he has done. The Hi-Commercial Club is composed of people who are taking one or more commercial subjects and who are greatly interested in commercial work. Some of these students are simply taking shorthand and typing in preparation for the long college lectures at which notes must be taken quickly and readably; others will become business men and women. Some will become "captains of industry," perhaps working up from the humble job of secretary to the secretary to the assistant cashier, to president of some large concern. Another may start as teller in a large bank and work up till he is one of those quiet, powerful men who sit with 50-cent cigars in their mouths in large upholstered chairs, and enormous, expensive offices high up in one of our modern skyscrapers and hold the destinies of a thousand people in the hollow of their hands. Maybe some will become secretaries to some celebrities and will travel to the four corners of the earth with them. Others may develop into those most valuable and efficient secretaries who always remember to send purple lillies from the boss to his wife on their wedding anniversary, and to remind the boss to wear his rubbers when it looks like rain, and to see that he keeps his appointments as nearly on time as possible. Some will be only ordinary, eight-hour-a-day stenographers, for, after all, variety is the spice of life, so they say, and we can't all be famous, and so we must be content with the ordinary things.

They Never Meet Unless Supper Is Served

"Step on it, Bill!" "Hurry up, Howie, supper's served." "Unless you hurry you won't get anything to eat, Petie." Those are only a few of the remarks a stranger might hear when a member arrives late for a Hi-Y dinner. These boys, every one of whom is a leader at school, have a supper-meeting weekly. Although it is not a law in their constitution, we believe that there must be some kind of an unwritten law to that effect, because these boys seem unable to have a meeting unless supper is served. Maybe the members are looking out for their health, for supper is prepared by the mothers of the boys. And is it good! Everyone present will readily admit that no one can cook as mother cooks.

History Their Hobby

History is constantly in the making, you know, so if we are to be a progressive school, we must keep abreast of the times. Our history club is the Hamilton Society, named after Alexander Hamilton, statesman and first treasurer of the United States. The purpose of the Hamilton Society is primarily to awaken interest in history—past and present. Members note events of historic interest recorded in newspapers and magazines—they find great pleasure in wars in Wiener-Neustadt, floods in Fyzabad, and murders in Manchuria. They make short talks on such subjects or invite outside speakers to talk on historical subjects with which they have had personal contact. Twice a month our “historians” hold their meetings under the supervision of Mr. Jessup.

The key's in the mailbox the same as before,
But there's no one waiting for me any more;
For she can't cook like my mother,
And has gone home to her mother.

In future years this may be sung about some of the present students of Lakewood High, but never about the girls who belong to the Home Economics Club, for every member of this society is able to cook anything and everything on the list of foods usually eaten by most people. They can prepare a full meal from "soup to nuts" without much effort on their part. The man who marries a former "Home Ecger" will be fortunate, not only in that he will have a wife who can cook, but also because his "better half" will be able to make her own clothes. Haven't you noticed the many well-dressed girls around school? Well, a great many of them have made their own clothes, so we extend congratulations to the men who marry these girls. But just a minute, girls! The membership is limited, so don't all rush at once. If you do rush, be sure to have your three-minute "try-out" talk prepared.

High Times

One of the busiest places in school is Room 136, home of the High Times, our weekly paper. And it's a paper of which you may well be proud. For many years it has been entered in the annual contest of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association sponsored by Columbia University, New York. The last three years the High Times walked away with the prize in the all-American Class A division. The fame of this paper has spread to high schools throughout the United States, because of its winnings.

The National Scholastic Press Association is honored by having as a member, our paper. When the N. S. P. A. convention was held in Cleveland this year, the faculty adviser, and High Times staff did everything in their power to give the delegates a time worth writing home about. Still, they learned much by attending the round-tables and convocations. Many served as guides, guards, secretaries, helpers at the registration desk, and as hosts and hostesses, or, in fact, in any thing or place they could.

The High Times is published entirely by a student staff. These people either are taking or have taken journalism. Not only the editorials, but also the business staff is composed entirely of students. And this year's staff is doing its best to keep up the good record and bring more honor to Lakewood via the High Times.

But true to that well-known characteristic of newspapermen, this bunch is a jolly, happy-go-lucky crowd, and enjoys many good times. Perhaps the best time they had was their dance, to which they asked the student body.

Lakewood High's "Newsboys"

"Paper boy! Paper boy!" "Let me have a paper quick or I'll miss my bus." Such are the remarks made to the paper boys who must sell their papers on the street corners of our busy city. But in our high school the remarks run like this: "Bill, have you gone for the High Times yet?" "May I have my paper, please, Betty?" Or sometimes, "Thanks loads, Marge, for all your trouble." The group of students pictured on this page is none other than our newsboys, better known to us as "High Times Representatives." It is this organization, composed of a person from each home room in the building, which is the connecting link between the students of the school and the staff of the High Times.

If you think that you would like to be a High Times Representative, think twice before you say so, because the person who is or has been one will tell you that it is no fun. It is a job to solicit subscriptions, and then after the student has expressed his desire to become a subscriber, to collect the money which a subscription costs. Every one of these people are salesmen. And they must be salesmen of ability in order to keep the number of sales of the paper above a certain mark so that a profit is made.

These people do things other than work. They hold a Representatives' party each semester and have a grab-bag, and then, best of all, ice cream 'n' cake. Then with all their efforts these people helped put over the High Times dance, which was the first dance of the New Year. And was it a success!

Representatives

These People Can Always

The greatest scholastic reward that can come to a Lakewood High School pupil is election to the National Honor Society. The National Honor Society is what its name implies, an organization of the most outstanding students in each graduating class, a part of a national organization. The most deserving students in each graduating class are chosen for membership, because of their scholastic work and extra-curricular activities. The four qualities that members of the National Honor Society strive for most earnestly are character, scholarship, leadership, and service to Lakewood High School. Near the first of each semester, a list of pupils in the upper third of the graduating class is made out; these students are eligible for membership. A copy of this list is given to each faculty member, who looks it over and may put a recommendation after the name of any student (if the faculty member so desires). Then, after extra-curricular activities have been considered, the most prominent students are selected.

Be Counted Upon

All Are Leaders in

Only a certain percentage of the class is elected to the National Honor Society; this adds to the honor of being chosen. The names of the members of the June Honor Society were not announced until late in the fall semester in an Honor Society assembly program. No member knew of his election until that assembly, which caused great excitement and surprise. Such an assembly program gives under-classmen an opportunity to learn something about the Honor Society, what it is, what it stands for, and its qualications for membership. The members themselves strive to be the kind of students the younger classmen can look up to and copy. They realize that they are the inspirations and ideals of the younger students, and must, therefore be good examples. As the Honor Society emblem, the keystone gives strength to a building, so our Honor Society members strengthen and uphold the ideals of our high school. Surely, then, the National Honor Society should be the aim of every Lakewood High School student!

Need Any After-Dinner Speakers?

Do you believe in old sayings? Well, if you do all's well; if you don't, you had better for once in your life. As the old proverb goes, "A word to the wise is sufficient," so never, if you're a wise man, get roped into an argument with a member of the Speakers' Club. We'll let you into a secret; although its name is not debate, it really is the debate club of the school. This is its first year of organization, and already it has done great things, so much can be expected of it in the future.

"I'd cross the sea on a rotten rail to come to Lakewood," said that famous newspaper man and after-dinner speaker, "Dusty" Miller, after his last visit to our school. He was brought by this club.

"DUSTY" MILLER

Future Statesmen and Orators

Say, do you know of anything more aggravating than a break in a moving-picture film just before the final clinch? Neither do our movie operators. The hero looks deep into the heroine's eyes—the film begins to jump—it staggers on for a few yards more and then dies in total darkness. But we sit patiently and wait for it to start again, don't we? Yes, we do! We object frankly and earnestly. We speak (?) unkindly and in an uncomplimentary way of our movie operators—how are we to know that such breaks are due to careless handling of the film before it came to our movie operators or to the great age of the film? We think that we can't exist during the lunch hour unless we see the movie.

Reel One!--Lights, Please

Their Works Give Us Pleasure

We get all excited and angry if anything goes wrong in the operating room and we don't get to see the next reel. But the boys mend the film and the show goes on. We settle back comfortably once more to read captions aloud. Sometimes the film breaks two or three times during a picture and we think we are abused. Think of the poor movie operators. The boys get lots of valuable experience from their work. Running a movie isn't the easiest job in the world. They have to roll the films, unroll them again, operate the machines—Lakewood High has two kinds of machines, one for slides and the other for moving pictures. Remember when Mr. Raine talked on Alaska in assembly? Well, then the boys used the machine for slides. Sometimes teachers wish to show films for their classes—Spanish, Chemistry, History, or Latin classes, they usually are—then our movie operators help the teacher run the picture machine (and perhaps earn an extra "A"). In connection with our Lakewood High history department we have American History films shown about twice a month. Our movie operators show these movies for the 12-B's (maybe they hate to get up in the morning, too). Then, of course, at noon these boys show the movie—they are a hard working bunch. The movie operators are organized as a club. If you want hard work but valuable experience, be a movie operator!

Science of All Kinds Holds Their Interest

$\text{CaO} + \text{H}_2\text{O} = \text{Ca}(\text{OH})_2$ —well, we could go on and have an equation with several steps, but for most of us one step is complicated enough. It is because of equations like this that people join the Newton Society. Who knows? Maybe some day a present member of the Newton Society will present to the world a theory, like the one Einstein recently brought to light. (But let's hope if he does that he puts it in language we can understand, because it would be terrible to have to look ignorant about something one of our former school-mates wrote, particularly if he had been your best friend.)

Not Frightened By Bugs and Smells

Play Melodies and Tunes of All Descriptions

"One, two, three, play!" "Let's hear the strings by themselves." "All right, all together now, play." If a stranger should wander into the auditorium some day during ninth hour, he would probably hear remarks of the above nature made by Mr. Jewell, director of the orchestra. Yet again he might be greeted by the strains of "Dreams of Love" or some other equally beautiful piece. The orchestra alternates with the band in practicing in the auditorium, but anyone is sure to find one or the other organization there, with its members working for all they are worth, for no matter what the weather or anything else, the orchestra must go on and be prepared to play, any time and every time, any place and every place. Any member of the organization will admit that this hard work is worth it, because the orchestra was asked to play for the Junior League production, "Treasure Island," besides at many other places. The orchestra, in addition, participates in the Annual State Orchestra Contest and always comes out near the top of the long list of contestants.

Lakewood's Own Photographers

Don't move! Hold that pose! Just a minute, please! Are you ready? Just a little smile, please. There, that's better. All right, thank you, it's all over now. These and similar remarks made by members of the Photography Club may be heard when they are taking pictures. It is this organization which makes it possible for so many pictures to appear in the three publications of our school. If you want pictures of your favorite athletic hero, just ask a member of the Photo Club for a picture and he will gladly sell you one for just a small sum. Haven't you ever wondered at the people who have risked their necks on top of the building of our dear old alma mater to get a picture of it from some unusual angle? Well, he was just another Photo Clubber.

Ether Waves No Mystery Here

"Hello, everybody! This is station W8CLA broadcasting from Room 325 at Lakewood High School, Lakewood, Ohio." What! didn't you know that we have a short-wave radio station right in our school? Yes, we have, and it has its station license and so is allowed to operate under the above call letters. If a person were ignorant of the above facts he might think burglars or something equally as bad were at work when he ventures near 325, because one would be sure to hear the members of the Radio Club talking in technical language or else hear someone else sending out a message and using a code in which to do it. The conditions under which members of the club are allowed to operate the set is that they hold an operator's license.

As this club, like all the rest of the extra-curricular activities, is interested in the welfare of the school, it has a broadcast receiver and it is used to tune in on important programs so that they may be heard over the school amplifiers. "Well, good-bye, folks, station W8CLA signing off."

And They All Know How to Write

Quill and Scroll? Of what two things in history does that remind one? Well, the first reminds one of the old quills which our forefathers used in place of a modern fountain pen. As for the scroll, it is the common name for the old Roman books. But, please, because we mentioned history, don't think this is a historical society, because it is not. On the contrary, it is the national honorary society organized for the purpose of promoting better journalistic writing among high school students of the United States. Perhaps, who knows, maybe they took their name from the above sources.

Besides having a membership in the national organization, Lakewood enters work of its most outstanding students in its yearly creative contest. And more than once people from our high school have walked off with prizes; a thing which has helped to spread the fame of Lakewood.

“It Happened in Monterey, in Old Mexico”

Among the active language clubs of Lakewood High School, the Spanish Club is perhaps the most popular and most interesting that we have. The reason for its popularity is no mystery. The club sponsors programs that are attractive. Usually the programs themselves are conducted in Spanish, and consist of talks by various members of the club on topics of current interest to Spanish students, jokes in Spanish, songs in Spanish, and sometimes talks by someone outside who has visited Spain and is able to speak on its customs or people. Once a year the society holds an open meeting, serving refreshments and giving a program to which everyone is invited. Membership is secured by giving a try-out talk in Spanish before a committee and taking a simple examination. This club is so popular that the membership runs as high as forty at one time. Besides the interest to the club members themselves, the club provides help for the poor struggling students who have fallen by the wayside, and tutors a vast amount of Spanish into them, thus rescuing a good many pupils from failure. This is a real service which all members of the club gladly contribute, as a part of their duty to Lakewood High School. Each year the Spanish Club sponsors a dance, which is held in the boys' gym.

A Bit of Old Spain

El Boletin Casual Brings News of Spanish Department

El Boletin Casual is the Spanish newspaper published by the students of Lakewood High School who have studied Spanish. If you have never read an account of a football or basketball game in Spanish, and you know that language, be sure and buy a copy of El Boletin and read about one. Perhaps, if you are a student of this department, you have read about the last party you attended in its society column. What! a society column in a Spanish newspaper published by the students of the Spanish department. Yes, there is, and not only that, but also a sports page, and section devoted to news—school news, faculty news, and news of the world.

So you see the teachers and pupils of the Spanish department are interested in something more than the Spanish to be found in a text-book.

El Boletin is published once a month by a staff composed of the best Spanish students, and sold for three cents per copy. So anyone who buys a copy is getting his money's worth and no mistake about that.

Our Guardians of the Peace

"I am sorry, but this it not the end of the line." Haven't you heard the same remark or a similar one when you have stepped into the lunch line if the place you stepped in was not at the end of the line? The reminding of that fact is done by no one else than one of our wide-awake, efficient Student Council members. This organization is the student governing body of Lakewood High School. The cafeteria is only one of the many places where a council member does the duty that in some other school would be given to a teacher. Using of students instead of teachers in some places helps with one of the aims of the council, which is to bring a better understanding between the student body and members of the faculty.

Student Council

Everyone remembers the signs which greeted us on our rambles through the halls during the week of November 17. They bore words something like this, "Don't forget November 20." "Bring your old clothes on November 20," and so on through all the signs that appeared. These were just reminders of the fact that the Student Council was sponsoring an "Old Clothes Day." It was on this day that clothes were collected to aid the poor families in and around Greater Cleveland. And did the student body respond to this call put out by the Student Council! We should say so; the fountain could not be seen for the mountain of clothes in front of it. So let's give the council three cheers for their hard work.

All Are Lovers of Poetry

"Poets to come! orators, singers, musicians to come!
Not today is to justify me and answer what I am for,
But you, a new brood, native, athletic, continental, greater than before known,
Arouse, for you must justify me."

In the year 1860, Walt Whitman, that well-known American poet, wrote the above verse as the first one in the poem, "Poets to Come." Some years ago a group of students in our high school were aroused, and as an outcome organized a society for the purpose of studying modern poetry of all types. As can easily be seen, it was named after Whitman. Just as Whitman earned a name for himself, so has this society earned a name for itself. Its reputation for having interesting programs is well deserved, for its programs are invariably worked out with the carefulness and attention to detail necessary to make them outstanding in the school. At each meeting a member of the club is responsible for the entertainment, and he usually works out a program including a very little concerning the poet's life and career, and a great deal in connection with his poetry, some of which is read by various members.

Hold Interesting Meetings

Occasionally a speaker is chosen to talk on some poet and his works, and the selection of speakers has always proved wise. During the past year programs have been held on Edna St. Vincent Millay, our American poetess; Rupert Brooks, the young English poet, who lost his life during the World War; Walter de la Mare; Dorothy Parker; and several other modern poets, besides a program featuring our own Lakewood High poets and poetesses. Once a year, just before the annual West Tech-Lakewood Thanksgiving Day game, the Whitman Society sponsors a dance. This year the dance was called the "Pigskin Prom," and it certainly started the Thanksgiving vacation off with a bang. It is not very difficult to gain admission to this society. All one has to do is select a poem, read it before the society, and accompany it with any spontaneous thoughts which may come to him. Isn't that easy?

COACH CORNEAL

Lakewood's Own Coach

George D. Corneal, the dean of scholastic coaches, came to Lakewood in 1917, when the school was small and unknown. From the arrival of Coach Corneal to the present time Lakewood's rise in athletics has clearly shown his greatness.

In 1917 he coached swimming, baseball, and football. In 1918 he added track and turned swimming over to Mr. Cockayne. He coached baseball and basketball until 1921 and football up to 1925. At the present time he is coaching track and probably always will because of the great success he has had and because of his affection for the school.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of Coach's success has been the manner in which his proteges have carried on after graduating. Harvey Smith, who graduated in 1930, is captain of the freshman track team at the University of Illinois. "Cliff" Murray is a sprinter at Michigan State. "Johnny" Barth is setting records in the high jump at Western Reserve University. "Dick" Womer is one of the leading distance runners at Ohio State, and "Bill" Kastler was captain of the University of Pennsylvania track team last year. His relay teams have also brought fame and honor to Lakewood. These are just a few of the great trackmen that he has produced.

Coach Corneal is known the country over for his track teams and for his pleasing personality. At Lakewood he is known as an omniscient man, always ready to lend a hand or to help to the best of his ability. No matter how difficult the task may be, he never refuses to try it. For these reasons he has won his way into the hearts of all those with whom he has come in contact.

Central vs. Lakewood, September 20, 1930:

Considering that Lakewood was beginning the season with an inexperienced line, they showed that they had real fight in their argument with Central, holding the invaders to a 6-6 tie. During the initial stanza the Purple drove the sphere to the opponents' three-yard line; Liffiton pushed through the line for the score; Laundry kicked for the point, but it was not good, and the tally stood 6-0 in favor of the Lakewood eleven. Rose of Central tied the score in the next period by completing a pass and going over with the ball. The Klein tribe starred for the visitors.

Akron North vs. Lakewood, September 27, 1930:

In the first quarter Blanke ripped off 30 yards, making the longest solo run in the game. Liffiton toted the score over and caught a pass for the extra point. Weissinger, at quarter for Laundry, carried a pass for 15 yards when he was downed. Just as the half ended, Don Pomeroy made the tackle that was one of the high lights of the first half of this big push. Ramsay threatened the Black and Gold goal a third time when he blocked a punt on the 20-yard line. Lakewood took the ball over three times to make the marker 18-0 plus one point after touchdown for 19-0 in their favor.

Lakewood vs. Lorain, October 11, 1930:

The Purple and Gold could not down that old jinx which has tagged them for four successive football seasons. Teckmyer, at left end, was usually the one to get in and get the man carrying the ball for the Lorain aggregation. Hinz could not play his best because his shoulder had been injured in the Youngstown game, but part of every tackle found him in it. Weissinger made several needed gains via the air, in the fourth quarter, but the passes were always intercepted when the line reached the opponents' 30-yard stripe, and Lorain once more held the ball.

Rocky River vs. Lakewood, October 18, 1930:

It turned out to be entirely a one-sided game in which the locals defeated the Rivermen with a score of 47-0. Instead of using the first team, Coach Ross used the second and the third teams. Harold Weissinger was the high scorer when he went over the opposing stripe for 24 points. Tom Ward, the 140-pound Liffiton replacement, made long advances through the line, which were the main reasons for the Lakewood tally being raised in the first two minutes of play. Grossman made one goal for the home team when he crossed the River stripe after a 12-yard run. Laundry was the first Purple man to go over for a touchdown and six points.

Elyria vs. Lakewood, November 1, 1930:

Lakewood fought their way through a 7-0 Elyria tussle. The Purple outcharged the Elyria men on every play. The tally was made by Liffiton in the third stanza, and Laundry kicked the extra point, making the score 7-0. Carl Smith broke through the visitors' line in the third and started the locals' rally. Carl played his best game in the Elyria match. Don Pearson was part of almost every play in which Lakewood was on the defensive. Ramsay, who took Berry's place at center, led a lively tackling attack, which did much to help in the win. Berry, left guard, was a main factor.

Heights vs. Lakewood, November 8, 1930:

Although the home battlers were trounced by the Heightsmen, they made the visitors know that they had been in a battle after the final gun. The first tally for the opponents was raised in the second quarter after the Purple fumbled and a Heights player galloped 30 yards to cross the line. The Lakewood linemen who stood out the most were Pearson and Teckmyer. Teckmyer played against one of this year's all-scholastic ends and kept him employed. Blanke made the largest gains for the Purple eleven. White replaced Blanke during the second period, playing for the first time this season.

Lakewood vs. Shaw, November 15, 1930:

Shaw downed the local mountains by the puny score of 2-0, a blocked pass over the goal being the score-maker. Lakewood was not able to hold onto the ball on kicks, this playing a large part in their defeat. The home aggregation shadowed the opponents' goal several times, but the Shawmen held and stopped the Rossmen from going across the stripe. Ramsay, who was picked for the all-scholastic, showed the whys and wherefores of this choice by being in consistently on the killing for the locals' defense. Dorko played a steady all-round good game, and Berry and Hinz also played their hard-fighting games.

Lakewood vs. West Tech, November 27, 1930:

Lakewood skidded to a victory over West Tech in the annual Turkey Day fracas by raising 7 points to Tech's 0. The run that put the pill across the stripe was executed by Laundry after catching a pass from Blanke. The Purple-Coated line did their best to hold on the icy field and they proved to be the better line. Mikula, at right end, showed his worth in holding down Markworth of the Carpenter eleven.

Lakewood vs. West Tech, September 20, 1930:

The Lakewood midgets trounced the West Tech freshies in an initial battle to the tune of 19-0. The first stanza could easily be conceded to the visitors, as the home outfit was not able to hold the ball. In the second scene the natives perked up and chalked up seven points for themselves. Then in the third session the opponents seemed to tire, and they let the local elves run over them repeatedly, although the home eleven put only six points across the tape. In the fourth act the Lakewoodmen again went over the stripe for a tally, making the final score of the fray.

Mentor vs. Lakewood, September 27, 1930:

Lakewood's little men downed the mentor High midgets by the total of six points. Mentor has usually held the upper end of the score in the previous pushes, but the home team made them handle the lower part this season. Ensminger carried the pigskin over the Mentor stripe after he intercepted the pass from Vellman to Metcalf on his own 16-yard marker and went over. The natives' line, composed of Fitch, Tonner, Meeks, Mason, Horvath, Elkins, and Gadd, held like a stone wall against a much heavier eleven.

Dover vs. Lakewood, October 4, 1930:

The Lakewood midgets trounced the Dover varsity by raising a tally of 20 points and holding the opponents scoreless. The local line showed the stuff of which they were made in holding the much heavier Dover eleven, not allowing them a chance to get in and stop the backfield from scoring. The scores were made on two passes and one end run, while extra points were tallied on the last two scores. Peate caught the first pass to score.

Lorain vs. Lakewood, October 11, 1930:

Lorain was held scoreless while the home elfs tallied up a score of 13 points in their favor. York showed he could be relied on for substantial gain every time he carried the pigskin under his arm. Lorain threatened the home outfit's line in the third quarter by standing on their one-yard line, but the Lorainmen fumbled and the Purplemen punted out of danger to the middle of the field. Ensminger intercepted a Lorain pass and raced for a touchdown, raising the tally to 6-0, and a few minutes later White duplicated his action to the tune of another six points. Tonner was always one of those to be in on the tackles.

Lakewood vs. West High, October 17, 1930:

Lakewood's bantams again held a much heavier lineup to the rate of 7-0. Coach Petersen started his second team, but he replaced them with the regulars, as West was too heavy for the second string, although they showed a lot of fight. Neff was one of the outstanding players on defense, and the brunt of the attack was born by the line with Gadd showing up as a dependable man. Through his part of the line the backfield was able to make some of the longest gains in this game, and the rest of the line cannot be forgotten.

Lakewood vs. Elyria, October 25, 1930:

Elyria was beaten by the much superior local bantam outfit and the Lakewood lighties piled up a score of 38 points. A powerful offense measure was the basis of the win for the locals. Wilson shone in running back punts; he also ran a good 60 yards for a touchdown, but there was off-side

The Lakewoodmen were scored against largely through Shaw's passing attack, which they used at very opportune moments. Although the local aggregation was dragged in the mud, they were at the head of the league for the 1930 season.

Lakewood vs. Heights, November 8, 1930:

Lakewood's midgets in the Heights game again came out with a six-point advantage, holding the visitors from scoring. In the first quarter the sphere was placed on the scoring end of the field after repeated long advances by Wilson and an able assistant, Neff. During these advances the line, with success, held the Heightsmen from boring through. Mason, a left end, was the Lakewood man who stood out most strongly on the defensive.

Lakewood vs. Lakewood Alumni, December 19, 1930:

The pupils put up a hard game for the former stars of the Purple and Gold, but they were beaten with a 29-22 tally.

Although three fighting quarters were marked under the Purple and Gold column, the visitors trimmed them, 23-22.

Lakewood vs. Rocky River, January 9, 1931:

Rocky River played their usual type of basketball, and the Lakewood five licked them, 26-6, Grossman making 11 points.

The Rossmen took a 26-16 drubbing when the Redmen showed a superior attack which left the locals stunned and groggy.

Lakewood vs. Lorain, January 17, 1931:

The Lakewood five tipped the Lorain applecart to the tune of 25-10, when the locals uncorked a snappy passing attack that dragged the league-leaders in the dust.

Lakewood vs. Heights, January 23, 1931:

Marshall and Rosenberg of Heights led the attack, which let their aggregation whip the Purple and Gold, 24-14.

Lakewood vs. Rocky River, January 30, 1931:

Lakewood again trounced the Rocky River aggregation easily, 30-16.

Lakewood vs. Elyria, February 6, 1931:

Lakewood, playing a return game, beat the Elyrians, 25-16.

Lakewood vs. Shaw, February 13, 1931:

Shaw was held to a tighter score on the Lakewood floor, as they won by only 29-26 in a return game.

Lakewood vs. Lorain, February 20, 1931:

Lorain turned the tables on the Lakewoodmen and led them to a 14-12 defeat on the Lorain floor. Teckmeyer scored 4.

Lakewood vs. Heights, February 28, 1931:

The basketeters were tired out from their hard tussle with the Libbey outfit the night before, and their game of ball suffered consequently. Heights won, 37-22. Lakewood ended in third under the Lake Erie League basketball standings.

The Lakewood feathers lost to a snappy passing attack that the visitors launched in an overtime period and won, 34-26.

Lakewood's superior basketball aggregation placed them on the win when they took over the Heightsmen, 25-22.

Lakewood vs. Heights, February 28, 1931:

Practice Meet, March 8

This was a practice trot to test out the new material for the squad. The Cornealmen were conceded the meet, although a score was not kept.

C. A. C. Meet

Lakewood took the seventh annual C. A. C. meet and tallied 46.5 points. The high spot was when Harvey Smith broke the mile record in 4:39. The 50-yard dash was won by White in :5.4. A fast race was decided in Lakewood's favor when McIsaac, Van Boxel, Crotser, and Reilinger stepped the mile relay in 3:47.

Penn Relays

The local team again came through and broke a world's record when they chalked up 8:16.2. The team was composed of Smith, Nicholson, Mobley, and Reilinger.

Michigan Relays

Harvey Smith took first. Lakewood copped second in the medley. Levkanich ran fourth in the mile.

The Purple and Gold puppy-pounders took three firsts and a second in competing against the best track men in all the eastern high schools. Harvey Smith came from behind and beat the Ontario team by five yards. The two-mile relaymen smashed the meet record of 8:21.2 which was set up by a Lakewood team. The one-mile relaymen brought another victory to Lakewood. Their time was 3:32.4. The half-mile relay team pushed the Columbus Central outfit to a new record of 1:31.8. Frank White was nosed out in a fast 100, the time being :10.4. Blanke took third in the hurdles.

Lakewood Relays

Another world record fell when the 1½-mile relaymen whizzed around the track in 5:49.8. Coach Corneal did not enter his first-string men in any of the races except the 1½-mile relay. West Tech set a new relay record when a speedy team puffed around the oval in 19:37.6. Davis, a hearty from East Tech, put the shot 50 feet 4 inches from the heaving line, and set one new meet and state record. In the 880-yard relay an excellent Lakewood team set a new record of 1:33.4. Lakewood cracked the 480-yard low hurdle shuttle relay mark when they hopped to a time of 1:01.5 in the trials. Lakewood lost the finals when Owens spilled.

Northeastern Ohio Meet

George Weisenbach won the javelin hurling show when he threw the stick 150 feet 6 inches. He was one of the stars discovered at this meet; the other one was Jim Owen, who ran second in the 220-yard hurdles. This meet was a preliminary to the Ohio meet.

Ohio Relays

For the second successive year Lakewood was forced to let Columbus Central win in the Ohio Relays. White took a first in the 100-yard dash, covering the distance in 10 seconds. He also outran the field in the 220 to the time of 22 seconds. Harvey Smith won the mile run in 4:32.9 and set a new record. Whitely of Lakewood leaped the highest of his career, but failed to place.

Cross-Country

Lakewood held their first cross-country run on the home field, but they lost the meet. Salem took the meet with 17 points. Syd Smith captured fourth. In the state meet the Lakewood harriers did not show up well and captured only seventh place as Salem romped into first. A Salem man led the string of runners and set a new record of 13:12.3. This is the first time that the Purple and Gold men have not placed first.

Swimming Is Their Hobby

Well, folks, here they are! Lakewood's own swimming club of girls, the Tankateers! As the name implies, these girls spend a great deal of their time in the pool of Lakewood High School. Every member of this club has passed a test "that is a test." It includes swimming ten lengths of the pool, being able to use four strokes in good form, doing a surface dive into eight feet of water, a standing-front dive, and one life-saving carry. Anyone who can pass these requirements surely deserves a membership in this or any other swimming club that might ever exist at Lakewood.

Like everyone else, this club did its part in making the Band Carnival a success. They staged a water show on both nights. One of the big features was a "Beauty Contest." The people in the audience were the judges; their choice was a black-haired miss.

These girls do more than have fun. They help teach swimming. Each one is responsible for certain beginners and does her share in helping her learn the necessary strokes so that she will be able to pass her requirements for graduation. We feel sure that none of the members of this organization will ever have any need to fear that they will not graduate because they cannot swim.

SCHOOL LIFE

GOOD MORNING! A day at school is about to unfold before your eyes—just a regular sort of day, which of course begins with current news (which is really just a snitch of choice gossip).

Ever heard of Milton Bobey? Really he's quite well-known—besides he actually baked his brand new shoes—hope if he takes it up as a profession he'll have more successful results.

Well, as the community seems to be going in for giving us gifts (useful or otherwise) may we suggest that our self-appointed traffic cop—one Mr. Powell—would greatly appreciate a whistle.

And our genial librarian, Maud Seigel—did you know that her boy friend deserted her to go hunting one week-end! (Sideline—she went out with somebody else.)

Remember the decorations at the Hi-Y dance? They were actually held together "body and soul" by adhesive tape borrowed from Miss Thompson—an emergency case!

And then our gay cavalier, Edgar Hall, once took a girl canoeing, over-set the canoe and reached for—his watch and hat. What a man!

Speaking of canoes and romances, may we present the latest returns:

Hear about the time Jean Cowan took a horse out riding and backed him into the river?

On the subject of riding, the team of Barker and Allen seem to go in for walking—they're speed demons—ask the couple that had to wait five minutes for them to catch up.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blonds"—evidently—look at Howard Cole and Margaret Colquhoun.

Jane Cassidy, that dignified personage seen around school, accepted a dinner engagement because for once she had not been asked to speak—no such luck for Jane! She was the first person to be called upon.

Aren't you s'prised? Well, news will leak out, don't you know? But, now you're going to see something—A Day at School—in pictures! Let 'er go!

HONOR DAY

May 22

Honor Day! What a world of meaning this takes on for many of us! Isn't it the wish of almost every student to sit out in front of the bleachers and be honored for one thing or another? Indeed, it gives one a great sense of importance to hear his name called out in front of the whole school, because of having done something a little bit better than someone else. Mr. Holdren is usually the "High Mogul" of this affair in the school year. And he surely does put it over well. To those of you who do not have the chance to be sitting in one of the honor groups, this day may seem a bit of a bore, but in most of the hearts of these people there is enkindled then and there an earnest desire to be out in those seats the next time. Honor Day was first installed in Lakewood High School by our late principal, Mr. Claude P. Briggs, in the year 1922. It is for the purpose of honoring the students who have done particularly well in some line of endeavor during some part of their school career. It is held on the football field during the latter part of May. It is one of the most important events on the school calendar. I hope we may yet see the day when everyone will be in the honor chairs, but even if we are not in the chairs, let's congratulate those who are.

Honor Society Assembly,

Citation Program, January 21

"The Monitor"

The Arrow held its annual subscription campaign in an assembly on October 14. There were several different scenes to depict to the students the various special features of the coming Arrow. The idea of the whole thing was to instill in the minds of the students an intense desire to obtain a yearly subscription for the Arrow. Did they succeed? Well, I guess!

The Armistice Day assembly on November 10 was a very picturesque one in honor of those boys of Lakewood High School who gave their lives for their country in the World War. The names of all the boys were read and a brief summary was given of their lives and the amount of service that they gave. It made one realize vividly the very wonderful thing the boys did for their fellowmen.

Mr. White and Mr. Barr gave a beautiful program on December 17 to fill our hearts with the Christmas spirit before we went home for the holidays. Two of the scenes, most beautifully worked out, showed "The Three Wise Men" and "The Birthplace of Christ in the Manger." The voices of our exceptionally fine Glee Clubs added a great deal to making the tableaux a huge success.

How very much most of us envied those who were honored by being elected to the National Honor Society in an assembly held on January 9! Mrs. Bernice Pyke gave a very interesting and inspiring talk, while complimenting those who had worked so hard for this, the greatest and highest honor obtainable by high school students. Miss Kelner is in charge of the Honor Society, and a very good job she does of it, too.

Another assembly held to honor the pupils outstanding in classroom work was the citation program directed by Mr. Brown. It was held on the morning of January 21. All the parents of those cited were invited to witness a very amusing play. Didn't it give one a grand and glorious feeling to show our parents how smart we were for once?

One to whom we owe a great deal of credit is Mr. A. K. Cook, who manages the controls and helps put over our various programs very successfully. He it is who is in charge of the amplifiers, so let's give Mr. Cook a great big hand to show our appreciation.

CLASS NIGHT

June 8

Class Night! The night when the senior class holds its revelry! The oldest become the youngest! Last year Class Night was something so entirely different from other years that everyone enjoyed it immensely. It was held outside on the lawn in front of the school. The excellent lighting system was furnished by Colonel Joseph Alexander, the father of Jane Alexander, who portrayed the Spirit of the Class. In the foreground of the picture you will recognize Donald Carmichael, who, besides being president of the June '30 class, was also the editor of the Cinema. These two positions are doubtless the most important and most responsible offices that a student may hold in Lakewood High School. Jane Alexander, who, as I have told you, was the Spirit of the Class, had as her attendants girls who were picked from the best-looking girls of the class. And I must say that they were all they were supposed to be. The class marched out in a very striking style, going around and around so that they might be seen by everyone. A gift was given to the school and to Miss Moore. Mr. Warren, Superintendent of Schools, was responsible for this innovation in Class Night programs.

Dads' Banquet, October 23

Open House Night, November 14

Hi-Y Parents' Night, December 4

Activities Banquet, December 5

Junior-Senior Prom, January 16

The boys and their dads enjoyed to the fullest extent an excellent meal and an excellent speaker at their annual banquet held in the cafeteria on October 23. The speaker was Branch Rickey, the well-known baseball manager. Oh, why weren't we girls born to be boys, so that we could enjoy such delightful occasions?

Open House this year was held on November 14. It was conducted according to an entirely different plan from that of other years. Only selected classes of the various departments were obliged to attend. Lucky, indeed, were those who didn't have to come and stand in front of a great number of people and tell them how much they knew or didn't know. It seemed that the bell would never ring to let us escape from this torture.

In our estimation the Activities Banquet, which took place on December 5, was the most successful ever held. The food was better, and the speakers more entertaining. Dave Rimmel was the toastmaster, and who says he wasn't good at the job? Then, of course, there was dancing in the gym where one could "trip the light fantastic" to his heart's content.

Another very successful event on the school calendar was the Junior-Senior Prom, held in the girls' gym on January 16. George Duffy's orchestra supplied the music, and just ask anyone who was there how good it was. Mr. Bixler deserves a great deal of credit in making this prom, the best ever attended by the student body, a huge success. Ethel Gresham, chairman of the prom committee, even went so far as to threaten the juniors and the seniors if they did not attend the dance.

One more of the gatherings for those fortunate ones of the male of the species was the Hi-Y Parents' Night on December 4. Rev. Studwell of the Lakewood Ascension Church was the principal speaker of the evening. Mrs. Berry, mother of one of the shining lights around the school, gave a short talk in thanking the boys for the lovely ferns that they each had given to their mothers as a token in remembrance of the night. From all reports that I have heard, the food was of the best. Ralph Motts was in charge of the evening's program. And then, of course, there must be a guiding light at the head of the whole outfit, and in this case that someone was Mr. Charles Shaw.

As all good things must come to an end at some time or another, so must the School Life Section end now. But sincerely we hope that you have really enjoyed this section half as much as we have enjoyed writing it. The purpose of the section was to portray a typical day at Lakewood High, and therefore to give you a clearer insight into the very heart of a great school, namely, its school life. As the radio announcer says, "If you have enjoyed our little offering, we hope that you will write us a line and tell us how much you have liked it." But please do not take us seriously, because we would hate to have to read all the letters that we would be sure to receive.

Just as a little side issue, we would like to tell you that Donald Gehring is responsible for all the fine pictures that you see in this section. Don takes mighty fine pictures, and we think that he should be highly commended for it. And you'll never guess who was supposed to be the editor of this section, either. None other than Ethel Gresham. It took her a long time to get started, but after she once got under way, she wasn't so bad. So if you don't like that which you have just seen in these pages, you will now know whom to blame for everything, and in case you should feel like doing away with these two characters, perhaps we could arrange it to suit you.

GOOD-NIGHT!

Lakewood High School Print Shop, where the Cinema is printed each year

Index of the Cinema Staff

The young man on Page 1, who is opening the book to lead you into its mysteries, is none other than LeRoy Ruether, editor-in-chief of this 1931 Cinema. Just as he is leading you through the book, so LeRoy (Roy for short) led the members of the staff through the year and the publishing of another Cinema. Roy is very fortunate in that he is able to get the most out of those under him with the least friction, and in this manner he caused much to be done, and done pleasantly, cheerfully, and good-naturedly.

Even though he held the highest position on the staff, Roy was willing to aid anyone else who needed help. He worked with the other members and aided them in any manner in which he could. He spent many an evening cutting and pasting pictures so that they could be sent to the engraver. Other times he could be found helping Margaret with the proofreading. And to top off all his other duties and responsibilities, Roy secured a great many ads. Throughout the year Roy kept the staff in a good humor and in that manner caused things to run very smoothly.

Mahlon Chew, whose picture may be found on Page 2, is the business manager of the staff. As you can guess from the title, he handles all the business material that may come before his attention, only that, of course, which concerns the staff. His predecessor, Ed Mitchell, was forced to resign because of eye trouble. Well, we wouldn't like to hope for anything, but . . . Seriously, though, Mahlon certainly did a fine job as business manager.

Margaret McLean, the young lady on the same page with Chew, is the assistant editor of the Cinema. She it is who is responsible for most of the good write-ups that you have just been reading with such enjoyment. She was the editor's understudy, and we believe that if Roy Ruether had dropped out of the editor's chair, Margaret would have been able to fill the position very well. And if some day you should notice that Margaret's eyes are going bad, you may know that it is because she spent so many nights proofreading the book.

Don Gehring is the one responsible for all the fine snapshots and pictures that appear in the school life section. He also took all the small snaps in the activities section. Don certainly is a very zealous worker and deserves a lot of credit. He is always willing to help out and takes any job on his shoulders that someone else may think too difficult or would not care to do. He might be called a "jack of all trades." Don is found on Page 3.

Bill Dawson is the other half of the circulation department. He is found on Page 3, too. He is in charge of the subscriptions in the sophomore and junior home rooms. And believe us, it sure was a difficult job. His greatest attribute is his honesty. What a grand chance he would have had to break off with a nice amount of money. But please do not think that any student of Lakewood High would do this. Seriously speaking, he carried off the position very creditably.

And then we musn't forget Howard Laundry, who succeeded Mahlon Chew to the post of circulation manager. His task is to take care of all subscriptions of the seniors and to collect and count the money taken in from subscriptions. It was he who conducted the "outstanding student" contest. So if you do not like the way the contest turned out, just see Howard and report your grievances to him, and he'll see that they are remedied. Maybe!

Ann Doudican, appearing on Page 4, the one who is doing the heavy painting job, is a member of the literary staff. When someone who could handle the job of advertising the Cinema to the student body was needed, it was Ann that was chosen. And believe us, she certainly is a hustler and a go-getter. Didn't you like those exhibits in the library, the main hall, and the cafeteria? Well, Ann is the one whom you can thank for that.

The young man on the same page, perched so romantically on the ladder, is no other than Asa Voak, the photography editor of the annual. Don't misunderstand us by that "photography editor" term. His job was to supervise the taking of the pictures, while Mr. Benson did the actual taking of the pictures. But no matter what anyone may say, it was a hard task to get everybody out there at the same time and get them all to hold still at the same time. How about it, Voak?

Now who could that be, the little girl looking so domestic with the polishing cloth in her hand? Why, bless my soul, if it isn't Ethel Gresham! As you probably know, Ethel is the editor of the school life section, being ably assisted by Don Gehring. She says she hopes that you enjoyed reading her section, because she did try very, very hard to please each and every one of you. Tell us, now, did you or did you not like to read this part of the book?

John Summers, whose picture may be found on Page 4, is the advertising manager on the staff of the Cinema. Without a doubt, his job and that of the editor and assistant editor is the toughest job on the staff. If it weren't for him and his staff of workers, you wouldn't be reading and enjoying this book right now. Working with John are Elizabeth Siller, Bernice Kadel, Joseph Schell, Don Smith, Frank Robinson, and Helene Gram. However, before the year was up, the whole staff was out digging up ads to help John.

Ian Carmichael is the sport editor. We feel that the sport section is the best that has ever appeared in any Cinema, and a great share of the credit is due Carmichael. Although he did have to be prodded along by Margaret, and was terribly busy with managing the basketball team, he did have time to secure an ad. Carmichael's picture is on Page 3.

Elizabeth Kraatz is the young lady who is responsible for all the lettering in this book. She was the staff artist of the Cinema, and a good job she did of it, too. She spent many long hours lettering the layouts so that the names could be put on the plate when they were sent to the engraver. No one on the staff envied Elizabeth her job. She always did her work cheerfully and good-naturedly and whenever she was asked to do it.

MONEY invested in a business education at Spencerian will pay you dividends for the rest of your life. Most of our graduates find that they have more than made up the cost of tuition, by increased earnings, within a year after graduation.

Spencerian Training involves the true principles of business and, by employing the "laboratory" method of teaching—using actual cases—emphasize practice rather than theory.

Some of the courses given at Spencerian are Stenography, Bookkeeping, Private and Executive Secretarial, Higher Accounting and Auditing, Secretarial Science, Business Administration, and Law preparing for the bar examination.
